Smoke-nickels are worth more than ever!

TODAY a nickel is good for more smoking pleasure than ever before. Yes sir! For that's all it costs to light up and enjoy a fresh mellow Havana Ribbon cigar!

You may think a 5c cigar simply can't be good—so many of them are always claiming to be "worth really more." But here's one that's different. Havana Ribbon actually sold for more for years! Sold big! And those same volume sales are just the reason it can be a nickel today.

Havana Ribbon is a real cigar man. As mellow as can be. Full bodied, fragrant and friendly! Just from smoking it, you'd never guess it could be bought for so little. Try it. At the nearest cigar store. You'll vote that 5c piece the greatest smoke nickel you ever spent!

Delivery Is an Economic Necessity

"What would Marion be like without its delivery service groceries? Well, I'd hate to tell you.

"Housewives have come to take delivery service for granted. Familiarity breeds contempt and often indifference. When the necessities of life are supplied day in and day out we cease to appreciate their source. It is when the supply is cut off that we appreciate it most.

"What if city women would suddenly be transported back to the days when there was no city water system, when they had to lug their water in from the well? They would put up a howl, wouldn't they? And yet it was easier to lug in a bottle water from the back yard in the old days than it is to lug a basketful of groceries three days from the store a half block, a block or even more blocks away.

"Of course we know that a good many women seldom tote these loads of groceries home. They use their telephones and use delivery service grocers do the rest. But there are some women who, although they would be horrified if told all the groceries were ahead to cut out delivery service, are obliged occasionally by illness of servants through shoppings in person.

"Let us assume there is a saving in time? Is it enough to compensate the woman for her higher outlay in dollars and cents? Assume that she would have to pay a wee bit more for delivery service, would that little be anywhere near what the service is worth to her?

"What housewife is there in Marion who cannot use delivery service? Can there possibly be one? Who have also used it—because they have found it indispensible. There have been times in their lives that being deprived of delivery service would have been an unendurable hardship.

"There are times when women can't leave the house without endangering the children by leaving them alone at home, or when there is sickness or when the weather is foul. To send children to the store alone is to endanger them. There are times, too, when unexpected company arrives and some food is needed in the house quickly. It is then that delivery service is appreciated and realized to be indispensable. But delivery service is as much need at all times. Most of Marion's busy women are busy women. They are good housekeepers. To be good housekeepers they must be busy a large part of the day, if not all day. It does do them a few moments to space now and then, and they are entitled to a little rest.

"Delivery service allows a woman to do more work if she wants to or more rest if she wants it. It gives her more time for recreation or for social duties. It gives her comfort. It helps to enable her to improve her health and mind.

"As a result of this the delivery service grocery is a home-owned store that is to be supported by residents of Marion, and is interested in the moral and material welfare of Marion and everybody in it. He does his part toward making Marion a better city to live in. He is a booster and pays his subscription to every worthy enterprise.

"We feel therefore that Marion merchants are serving the best interests of the city and its people, that to be deprived of the service of these merchants would be a real hardship.

"To be fair, we must say that all times the city has not used the service it has. The Marion merchants are doing their part. We are asking the housewives to co-operate with us in order that we may serve them with those duties that are not to their liking. On our part we pledge the best service, highest quality and lowest possible prices.

It [illegible] to [illegible] a chart with [illegible] telling about the village smithy beneath a spreading chestnut tree. Both the village smithy and the chestnut tree appear to be pretty much gone.

The Detroit Free Press recently ran an editorial on the "Fatal Years" in Married life, which no doubt caused many of its readers to wonder regarding the need of any attempt to particularize.

There are times when we are inclined to feel that a lot of those who believe they are called to run for office are victims of a sort of vocal mirage.

The fellow who has delayed his vacation till the present month has the satisfaction of knowing that if the weather isn't any better than that which is past, it can't possibly be any worse.

The Hon. Calvin Coolidge and the Hon. Charles Evan Hughes seem to be putting on an American version of the Alphonse and Gaston act.

Asked for an interview on his return from Europe, Mr. Mellon excused himself on the ground that for several months he had been visiting in non-English-speaking lands, meaning, we assume, that he was so greatly out of practice in the use of English that he might not be understood.

Dangerous Editorial Utterance.

We have come upon many surprising utterances in type in years past, but we can recall none so amazingly surprising as one which appeared in the editorial columns of the Cleveland Plain Dealer of Thursday. It was so decidedly apart from the sane utterances which might be anticipated in the editorial columns of a newspaper of the size and importance of the Plain Dealer that we reproduce its text in full. It read:

"Long suffering motorists, chronic martyrs to the casual meanderings of the pestilential pedestrian, will chortle with glee over the news that a champion of their cause has at last arisen and his triumph has been told in flash and published in the streets of Ashalon. For to a Newark man who had been knocked down by a car while crossing a principal street the driver of the car administered a punch on the nose as sole consolation, with the object of teaching him to keep out of the way.

"To the question, 'Why is a pedestrian?' no better answer has yet been devised than 'For the spiritual discipline of the motorist.' No greater temptation to expectation exists in certain foreign countries than the fact that it is the injured pedestrian who is arrested rather than the injuring motorist, the assumption being that the latter was where he had a right to be and the former wasn't.

"If pedestrian observance of traffic laws in Cleveland fails to improve it might be salutary for Cleveland motorists to import a few Newark tactics, one of the rules of military strategy which can be adapted to civilian conditions is that an offensive is the best defense."

Whether interred in jest or earnest, the foregoing quotation is premature with possibilities for harm. Even though it may have been penned in jest, thrown out on other than an outrage the writer's instinct, the careless, the reckless and the ethically [illegible]. If uttered in earnest, [illegible] that case it [illegible] and [illegible] absolute a sin for [illegible] the fog that [illegible] motorists, [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] is not [illegible] Paris are [illegible] [illegible] young [illegible] [illegible] girls are [illegible] [illegible] whose [illegible] [illegible] say that this [illegible] the pedestrian is the wrong [illegible] set [illegible] rights [illegible].

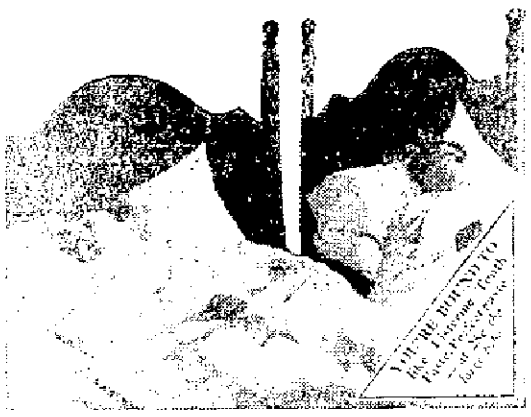
because of this



When couple drift apart there is usually a reason for it. More often than you imagine, the cause is halitosis (unpleasant breath) the unforgivable social offense which threatens friendships, jobs, and even love affairs.

The way to avoid such offense is to rinse the mouth with Listerine every day, and especially before meeting others immediately. Listerine removes every trace of unpleasant odor. Don't fool yourself that you never have halitosis. Due to modern habits, it is all too common. Write for booklet of etiquette. Lambert Pharmacal Co., Dept. J-J, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.
